

Ms. Brink's Class Notes

March 2010

Hello families!

I cannot believe March is already here! The biggest news this month is my new teaching opportunity. As Joyce shared with you, I am transitioning to subbing with Cherry Creek Schools on Wednesdays and Thursdays. This was a very difficult decision for me, but it feels like a good step in the direction I want to move in. Feel free to pull me aside to chat about all of this, as I know it can be frustrating and you may have questions. Check the calendar for dates! As always, please contact me with questions or thoughts (720-480-9007 or amyabrink@gmail.com).

Love,

Amy

It Looks Like Play...

Through the Writing Center a child:

- Experiments with a variety of writing tools and materials
- Develops small muscle and eye-hand coordination
- Uses imagination in writing and illustrating
- Develops literacy concepts of reading, writing, speaking and listening
- Creates written products (letters, lists, stories, and illustrations)
- Develop concepts of size, shape, direction, location
- Exercise creativity and imagination
